Did You Know?

April is Alcohol Awareness Month. According to the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA), alcohol is the third leading preventable cause of death in the United States and kills 88,000 people annually. The effects of alcohol have been linked to physical health complications such as liver disease and cardiovascular problems, and psychological and social problems as well. In Wisconsin, binge drinking is among the highest in the United States and a serious public health concern. Based on the North Shore Community Health Survey, 24% of residents identified as binge drinkers in 2015.

The NIAAA encourages everyone to help prevent the misuse of alcohol and participate in Alcohol Awareness Month. Many people have felt the impacts of alcohol in some form. You may have suffered with addiction yourself, had a loved one hurt by a drunk driver, or helped someone through the recovery process. Here are some tips to help yourself and those around you.

- Keeping track of how much alcohol you consume
- Do not drink when upset
- Avoid triggers- if certain people or places make you drink even when you don't want to, try to avoid them.
- Find alternatives- if drinking has occupied a lot of your time, then fill free time by developing new, healthy activities, hobbies, and relationships, or renewing ones you've missed.
- If you do drink, NEVER drive while under the influence
- Help educate others by talking to your kids about alcohol, talking about the effects of alcohol during pregnancy and encouraging those who have a problem to get help
